Prohibition Daze Set, Ches Kellam To Play

Loyola's senior class will sponsor the third annual "Prohibition Daze" dance, next Saturday in the gym. Ches Kellam will provide the music, geared to the tunes of the twenties, from 9 'til 1.

Decorations supplied by the National Brewing Co., will add to the speak-easy atmosphere, which decor chairman, Mike McDonough and his "capable crew", plan to create. An added feature will be candle light at each table.

Kellam no stranger

Kellam and his orchestra are no strangers to Loyola audiences, having played at the last two Junior proms. Ches, who just returned from two New York night club engagements, has promised arrangements, popular in the frolicing, boozeless-in-bond era.

Senior class president and general chairman of the affair, Joe O'Hara, has expressed a desire that couples come in flapper attire. "It would certainly contribute to the enjoyment of the dance," Joe enthused, "However, the dress will be optional."

Tickets available

Mike Oles, ticket chairman, has announced that tickets will be available all during exam week at the ticket table in the cafe, as well as from individual, roving members of the ticket committee. The $3.50 ducats will also be sold at the door.

Bill Corcoran and Bob Magaha are accepting table reservations. Each table will seat five couples. A fifty-cent fee is required with each reservation.

Door prize

A barber-shop quartet, composed of members of the glee club, will perform, and a surprise door-prize will be awarded during intermission.

Student Building To Be Dedicated By Archbishop

The official dedication of the Dining Hall-Student Union Building has been set for Sunday afternoon, January 31, at 3:30 p.m. Performing the ceremonies will be His Excellency, the Most Reverend Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore.

Approximately 2500 invitations have been mailed to the alumni and other friends of Loyola College, as well as to members of the present senior class. However, the entire student body has been invited to the ceremonies. Honor guards will be provided by Loyola's Company T-5 of the Pershing Rifles.

Invitations

Among the dignitaries invited to the dedication are the Right Reverend William J. Sweeney, class of '22, the pastor of St. Ursula's Church; his honor, Mayor J. Harold Grady, class of '38; his honor, Governor Millard J. Tawes, and the Very Reverend John Daley, S.J., provincial of the Maryland Province. At the present time, there is no official information as to exactly who will be in attendance.

Schedule

The order of events will be as follows: the Archbishop will first bless the cornerstone and then enter the building, blessing each room as he passes; everyone will then proceed to the gymnasium, where benediction will be celebrated, with Fr. Sweeney delivering the sermon. Afterwards, a reception will be held in the new building.

Semester Examinations Begin Today With New Six-Day System

Semester examinations begin today and continue through next Friday, January 22, for all day students of Loyola College.

This is the first time in Loyola history that exams will be spread over a six day period. The new schedule was adopted to enable students to take only one exam each day.

Dean Of Men Comments On S.U. Bldg. Use

Father Bourbon has issued the following statements which should be useful to students concerning the new building:

(1) Even though there is a P.A. system, it will be used sparingly. The students are reminded not to depend on the P.A. system for announcements: all routine notices will be posted on the bulletin boards. The bulletin boards are located in the first floor lobby and in the basement lobby.

(2) Activities will be permitted to use the loud speaker, if their requests are submitted at least one day ahead of time. There will be a limit of one-half minute for each spot announcement. The times for announcements over the loud speaker are 8:40, 11:10, 12:10, and 1:10.

(3) Music will be played in the building at different times during the day. Suggestions are welcomed as to times when the music should be played, and as to selections. (Ordinarily no vocal selections will be played.) Written suggestions may be left at the Dean of Men's office, located on the second floor of the new building.

(4) Keep checking the bulletin boards for the operating hours of the cafe, the book store, the activities offices, etc. The present hours may be changed.

(5) Any activity may schedule events for the building. The activity heads must see the Dean of Men in advance to get details straightened out.

"We are making an effort to keep regulations at a minimum," comments Fr. Bourbon, "and co-operation on the part of the students will help from adding more regulations."

Although some students may complain that they still have two exams scheduled for the same day, the majority of the student body is happy with this new system. The discrepancy among the minority is attributed to the fact that these students are taking courses which are composed of students from a variety of curricula.

Council Responsible

This new examination arrangement was acknowledged by the administration through the efforts of Loyola's Student Council. The Council has firmly supported the six-day system for some time but had been unable to push the plan into effect.

Payments Due

The library staff, supported by Father Galvin, reminds students that semester examinations may not be taken until all overdue payments have been settled. The same reminder is also passed along by the yearbook staff. Unless each student has remitted his six dollars for a yearbook, he is automatically absented from exams.

Short Takes

Music Club

Official opening of the new Music Room will be delayed until furnishings and paneling is installed. Mr. S. L. Hammerman has volunteered to donate the furnishings and room. The room will be named in honor of him.

Dramatics

* Originally scheduled for presentation in Wheeling, the Province One-Act Play Contest will be held at Loyola this year due to lack of facilities at the West Virginia school. At least four entries are expected for the February 21 affair.

NFCCS Contest

February 7 is deadline for entrants in the NFCCS Short Story Contest. Limited to a 1500 word maximum, the story should be double spaced with student's name and college on each page. Three copies should be sent to Miss Aileen Callahan, St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, Md. Prizes are $15, $10, and $5.

Dr. William Thaler holds discussion with students in new Student-Union lounge.

Editorials

That Time Again

Today begins what most students at Loyola consider the most dreaded period of the entire first semester. A question which is asked by many people is, are semester examinations really necessary. Do they help a student or do they tend to hurt him?

There are always two sides to every story. This case is no exception. Most of the faculty members are in favor of examinations. Many see exams as a valuable educational experience, which serves to organize and unify material learned over a full semester. Others feel that one big test of a student's general knowledge gives a very good indication of his over-all ability. This is true.

Of course the one big test might hurt the student. A man with a B average could do a poor job on the exam and as a result be unsuccessful in the course. Most faculty members will say that a student with an A or B average will not do a poor job on the exam. They say that since he has kept up a good average during the semester, he will do well on the final. This may not always be true for several reasons. For example, upon entering the exam room, the student's mind may go completely blank. This has been known to happen. Or the student may take the exam while he is sick, and fail as a result. Excessive worry and sheer exhaustion from long hours of study are causes for students to do poorly on exams.

But such cases are exceptional. By and large, exam performance is a faithful mirror of our day to day performance during the year. We may not want to admit it, but it's true.

This next week will be a period of stress and strain for the faculty also. Sometimes we forget that the instructors have as much work preparing, correcting, and tabulating the results of our exams as we do taking them.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The pain of returning to classes after the holiday was soothed somewhat by the opening of the new student union building. Father Beatty and everyone else responsible deserve our thanks and congratulations.

Many a visitor's eye will sparkle upon entering the building for a basketball game or some other activity. The building is a structure with which anyone would be proud to be associated.

We are a small school and our financial resources are limited, but the student union building is no indication of this. I might be prejudiced but I feel that none of the neighboring schools have anything to compare with its modern structure and furnishings.

The pride which I am sure we feel will soon fade unless we have a little cooperation and thoughtfulness. The next time you are in the building look around and take notice of the coffee cups, bottles and dishes left on the tables. No matter where this childish attitude was originated it is time to break it. Sloppiness is not an essential part of college life. This is a contradictory of reality. We are supposed to be young men.

If we all work together life in the lounge and caf. will be very pleasant for everyone concerned — including the Dean of Men.

The Greyhound

Vol. XXXII, No. 11

January 15, 1960

Student publication of Loyola College, 4501 N. Charles Street, Baltimore 10, Maryland. Published weekly during regular day sessions.

Entered as second class matter at the Baltimore, Md. Post Office.

Postage paid at Post Office Baltimore Maryland.

Telephone IDlewood 5-2500.

Subscriptions — $1.50 per year

The Greyhound is a publication by and for the students, and the opinions expressed therein are not necessarily the views of the college administration. Official pronouncements of the Administration will be so designed.

When Loyola Singers visited Mount Mercy at Pittsburgh last weekend the two clubs sang at rehearsal . . . .

. . . . And at the Mixer afterward. Our photographer assures us that the formal concert itself was great. He was singing.

the Watchdog

It's exam time again and all the usual indications are here with it. The halls are quieter, mass attendance has picked up, the faculty is enjoying an unusual degree of popularity, and everyone seems to be studying from little bits of paper. If things look bleak and you are worried, remember the immortal words of the famous accountant, "Ha! Ha! You guys must be taking it directly in the arm. Ha! Ha!"

It's nice to see that the new student union building is still standing. Of course there have been some small incidents such as students dragging their hob-nailed boots across the coffee tables, or little bits of trash being left on the cafeteria tables (they must truck it in). We suggest that those people who have an irresistible urge for ash-trays consult a psychiatrist for this is a very dangerous condition. If left unchecked this urge may develop into one for steam rollers, fire trucks, locomotives, bags of money, etc., etc. This in turn may cause them to become unpopular.

The seniors have done a grand job organizing the up-coming prohibition daze dance. However they made one slight error. They lost the tickets together with the list of those who had received tickets without paying for them.

Contrary to his usual accuracy Harry seems to have made a little mistake in regards to his charitable remarks concerning the two female math majors. They attend Mt. Saint Agnes, not Notre Dame. Well done, Harry.

If anyone would like to know who put the sign outside the Dean of Men's office, just look for a guy 32 feet high.

Congratulations to the Sodality, who had a successful mixer last Friday night.

Do all the Casanovas on campus know that it is possible to borrow books from Notre Dame's library?

The one act play contest scheduled to take place at Wheeling college has been shifted to our own fair campus. This has made some of the music loving members of the dramatic society feel bad, since they wanted to use the trip as an excuse to visit their favorite radio announcer, Lee Moore of WWVA.

The Watchdog tried to get on the bus with the glee club for the Mount Mercy College concert, but they wouldn't believe he was a foreign correspondent.

Alumnus James Kane Calls 'Em For N.F.L.

The stadiums are empty and the locker rooms are bare, but what of the men who officiate Pro-Football games? A Loyola Alumnus, James A. Kane, is one such man. Graduating from Loyola in 1931, Mr. Kane is at present a Chemist at an Oil Refinery in Philadelphia.

He became interested in officiating in 1932 and worked inter-collegiate games before entering the pro ranks. Later, thru a personal letter to the late Bert Bell and the influence of Mike Wilson, last year's N.F.L. technical rules advisor, he became a field judge in the pro game.

In comparing the present wide-open game of today with the rugged ground game of the 30's, Mr. Kane thinks that there is much more spectator appeal in today's game. With all the equipment changes and coaching changes, he said that spirit, that sense of sacrifice for your teammates, will never change.

He recommends to any sports minded individuals with the proper qualifications to take up officiating. Sharpening of one's mental and physical reflexes, associating with "High Type" individuals, and broadening one's acquaintances are some of the many rewards of officiating.

In speaking of the Colts, he said that the Colts are a fine team but that a lot of credit must go to the support given the Colts by their loyal supporters. Last year he officiated the Colt-Redskin game and this year he worked the Colt-Lion game.

Mr. James A. Kane

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By ROL STURM

Ass't Sports Editor

Student attendance at the Hound home basketball games has continued to be very good. This is not evidenced, however, from the volume of organized cheering being done.

Considering the size of the group, the cheerleaders, and the Greyhound, and the group of students who make it a point to sit directly in front of them, most of whom are members of the Green and Grey Club) are doing a great job.

The problem arises due to the fact that, the many students who are in attendance at the game are scattered about in different sections of the stands. This separation from the main body of rooters causes many students to be hesitant to cheer.

At the away games this problem does not present itself, because everyone from Loyola, being in the minority, naturally sits together. For this reason the cheering done at some of the away games has been outstanding considering the number of students in attendance.

If we all try to get to the game a little earlier and sit on the side opposite the bench, I am quite sure our school spirit will be more in evidence and you will even enjoy the ballgame more.

B-Basketballers Test Local Y In Rematch

The Freshman team under the coaching of Nappy Doherty will attempt to improve their record of 3-4 tonight when they take on one of the outstanding amateur teams in the city, the Baltimore Y.M.C.A., led by ex-Bullet, Stan Miasek. Working for the first time at full potential after some early season injuries, the Hounds will seek to avenge an earlier loss to the "Y".

Heading the Hound attack will be John Schu, the leading scorer, and Tony Rivezzo, the N.Y. lad who turned in the best individual effort of 29 points in a losing effort to B.J.C. The other three probable starters are Mickey Gardiner, a Loyola High school product, Charles O'Donnell and John Killen, the biggest surprise so far. Rounding out the squad are Don Wallenhorst, Gary Cucuel, Dorsey Baldwin, and Mike Burton.

The squad's 3-4 record includes wins over Calvert Hall College, Towson Teachers, and Washington College.

Loyola Swimmers In Last Home Meet

Loyola entertains Randolph-Macon tonight at 7:30. Bill Klarnar, coach of the mermen, says, "We will be heavily favored in this contest."

This should be enough incentive for a large crowd to come out and see the squad in its last home meet. Come out and see a champion!

Loyola's unbeaten squad has won five straight swimming contests. Gallaudet and Gettysburg were the fourth and fifth victims. Gallaudet was submerged by a 72-21 score. Lew Smith, Pete Powley and Tony Hughes each scored six points for the winners.

Loyola then splashed to a 61-33 triumph over Gettysburg. Eight of eleven firsts were recorded in this convincing victory. The Hounds scoring was led by Ken Freimuth and George Krapp. Freimuth a freshman, led with 11.5 points while Krapp registered 10.

With the return of George Krapp to his form, the natators prospects for an undefeated season appear even greater.

...the top three scorers on the squad are Martin Pilsch, with 30.50, Pete Powley with 30.50 points, and Ken Freimuth with a total of 28.25.

...the team reached its peak in the Gettysburg meet. Many swimmers knocked seconds off their usual time, including two backstrokers Lew Smith and Jim Burns.

...the spirit on the swimming squad is very high. They have an unusual amount of determination. A large part of this can be attributed to the two Bobbsey Twins Seally and Pete Powley.

Grapplers, Jays Vie In Match At Homewood

BY JOHN JEPPI

Loyola returned to the M-D wrestling league against Gallaudet and bowed by a 29-8 score. The relatively inexperienced Hound squad managed to capture but two of the nine matches.

Bill Iampieri got the Loyolas off to an auspicious start in the opening event by pinning his opponent in 5:30. This victory came in the 123 pound division. Buck Parr gave Loyola a 2-1 lead by decisioning his Gallaudet rival 6-5, in the 137 pound class.

From this point on it was rough riding for the green and grey as the more experienced Washington team dominated the remaining six matches. Only Charlie Carey (191 pound class) came close to winning, 3-4.

Coach Dick Clem's squad benefited by the loss and can be counted on to stir up some rivals before the season terminates.

Hungry Hounds Climb Mounts At Emmittsburg

By PETE COOK

Loyola College will be seeking to pull two victories ahead in its series with Mount Saint Mary's basketball team. The hoopsters travel to Emmittsburg, Maryland tomorrow night to meet the Mountaineers in the first half of the annual home and home series between the two clubs.

Thus far, after 49 years of skirmishing, the Hounds have a 43-42 advantage over their arch-rivals, with the Mount taking the two thrillers last year.

As most Evergreeners recall last year both games went beyond the regulation playing time and Nappy Doherty says "This year it should be just as close."

St. Mary's main forte is its balance. Ed Pfeiffer, who is a freshman, has been a big surprise and has really moved the team.

Callahan Tallest

Jerry Savage and Jack Gunn are the two starters who saw the most action last year. Dick Talley and 6'7" Mike Callahan complete the starting team. Sophomore Callahan is the tallest and is heavily counted on to supply good board work.

Savage Best

Although the Mountaineers lack a couple of really great shooters, which they are accustomed to, the squad has a great amount of teamwork. The best shot on the team is Savage, but after him they have nobody who is in the class of a Jack Sullivan. What the hosts have cooked up to offset this should prove quite interesting.

Team Effort Needed

The Hounds will be seeking to better their conference mark of 5-2. Jos O'Hara has come along to lead the Loyola scorers in the last two games, but a big effort just by Joe will not be enough for victory. John Heagney, Ed Murn and Mike Sneeringer will also have to come up with top performances if the Hounds want to emerge victorious

Buck Parr starts reversal in recent match with Galludet. Parr decisioned his man. (6-5)
